

Statement on Transparency

AVI is committed to accurate and transparent communication with its stakeholders and will make available a range of readily accessible, accurate and up-to-date information in order to keep stakeholders informed of the organisation's activities and performance (as outlined in AVI's Communications & Fundraising Policy).

AVI complies with relevant legislation, ACNC Standards, the ACFID Code of Conduct and funding and contractual requirements of DFAT and other donors. Our commitment to transparency and integrity within financial management is demonstrated through application of external audits and published annual audited financial statements on our website.

Transparent information

AVI openly shares information on its website including:

- Our Constitution, legal status and organisational purpose
- Annual audited financial statements
- Organisational policies and statements
- Annual Reports
- Our Governance structure, details of Board and sub committees
- Details of organisational memberships and registrations within the sector

Information that will not be made public includes:

Confidential information and correspondence relating to employees, volunteers, program participants, donors and partner organisations; candidate information and applicants for roles; information relating to sensitive operational matters; and sensitive commercial information.

Reasons for not disclosing information include:

Privacy: Information private to individuals concerned, as outlined in the Privacy Statement

Confidential Information: Information because of a legal, commercial or contractual reason, or issues under negotiation.

Intellectual Property and Copyright Information: In some cases, AVI is not able to disclose information because it is under copyright or provided to us under obligation of confidentiality.

Security: AVI will not disclose information where we consider it could jeopardise our ability to operate or for the safety of our staff, volunteers and that of our partner organisations.

Harm to Operations: AVI will not disclose information that could compromise or harm our work.

Other: Information concerned entirely with internal administration or operating systems. Internal working papers that address future plans or drafts of work.
